

Actions devoid of the Lord's name

In BHAGAVATAM—
A Tongue which does not take the name of Lord is only the tongue of a frog an ear which does not hear the name of the Lord is a wooden door, an eye which does not see Lord & devotees are the eyes in the wings feathers of peacock.

In Bhagavatam: -

A tongue which does not take the name of Lord is only the tongue of a frog; an ear which does not hear the name of the Lord is a wooden door; an eye which does not see Lord and devotees are the eyes of the feather of peacock.
